Our earth is a great reservoir of magne How ill-founded this notion is may be seen by a recent incident in the New tism, and great currents are in constant York postoffice, where the assistant general superintendents, whose duties call other "rivers in the sea." That these for the exercise of ability that should command good pay, and who were receiving $2,500, $2,000 and $1,700 a year, respectively, have been reduced to the uniform salary of $1.400. In any mercantile house ability and industry such as are required of assistant general superintendents in a postoffice like that of New York would command at the beginning the highest salary mentioned above, with advances from time to time as familiarity with the business increased; but these men, after years of service, find their pay reduced to the level of that received by mechanics.

To be we would the polar currents have an appreciable effect upon the human organism, is universally conceded, and the only point for discussion is how to adjust ourselves to these currents, so that the effect shall be for good and not for evil. The one position longest maintained by our bodies is that assumed in sleep, and the best opinion seems to be that one should lie parallel with the polar axis, that is, head to north or to south. To test the matter, we suggest a trip in the elegant sleepers of "The Burlington," a direct north and south line for 350 miles along the Mississippi, and find out how soundly you can sleep when in accord with the polar currents.
